"Mayday Management for Incident Command- Strategic Considerations Unfolded"

Presenter Bio: Billy Greenwood is a 23 year student of the fire service, holding positions in volunteer, paid on call and career fire departments. He is currently the Assistant Fire Chief of Training with the Manchester-Boston Regional Airport and Lieutenant with the City of Keene Fire Department. Billy is a Pro-Board Instructor III; Senior Staff Instructor with the New Hampshire Fire Academy, FDIC International presenter for the past 6 years, member and presenter for ISFSI - International Society Fire Service Instructors and the owner FETC Services. He has been published in Fire Engineering and Fire Rescue Magazines and hosts a radio show called Tap the Box on Fire Engineering Radio.

This class was designed by FETC in 2006 after experiencing some maydays and updated many times since. It focuses on increasing our Command Staff Team for the MAYDAY by front loading your run cards to provide the manpower needed to rescue one of our own. Building a better Command Teams using CRM - Crew Resource Management which is endorsed by the IAFC. We will discuss the airline industry's model of Pilot and Co-Pilot during normal and emergency operations during flight and overlay their model onto our fire ground. Preparing the command team for greater fire ground safety, by identifying and isolating potential MAYDAY situations using progressive RIT/RIC and Safety Officers. Commands response to the actual MAYDAY; fire ground ops frequencies, MAYDAY frequencies, strong focus on Accountability and PAR's. Command response by our "MAYDAY Checklist" to maintain a strong command presence through solid ICS. Considerations for an (EDS) Emergency Distress Signal from a firefighter's portable radio verse using plain language for calling the
